Designing a home completely depends upon a person's taste and imagination. One may prefer a classical or contemporary look, a plain or intense color scheme, simple or decorative furnishings, modern or antique furniture, or simply mix-and-match, that depends upon your lifestyle and personal choice. Thus, a home is no longer simply a stage for family life, but in contrast, has now become the faithful reflection of the standard of living of the person. It is often the smaller touches that contribute most to the distinctive finish.
