October 2007

The Second Anniversary celebration of The Aura was an interesting, remarkable and exciting event. The immaculately dressed members and their husbands, all in green and white, added grace and elegance to the evening. Director V. Priya proved to be an excellent choice for the occasion. Many women could identify themselves with the characters of her story, which she related in her address

The one-act plays staged by the three groups competed with each other in their appealing stories, hilarious dialogues and alluring humor. Ms. Priya had quite a tough time judging them. Congrats to all the winners.

As The Aura always gives importance to punctuality, this year too prizes were given to the members who had a 'GREEN' track record of being on time to meetings. Members with maximum attendance were recognized and awarded. Last but not the least a special mention has to be made of the sumptuous dinner that followed.

Friends, this year again, we have lined up motivating and attention-grabbing programmes for the coming year – each one better than the other in content and variety. Let us not miss to celebrate and enjoy any of the events.

Essentials of life

From birth to age eighteen, a girl needs good parents.

From eighteen to thirty-five, she needs good looks.

From thirty-five to fifty-five, she needs a good personality.

From fifty-five on, she needs good cash.

But what she needs throughout her life is confidence in her self.
