What went Behind...

Evam Entertainers breathed life into Chetan Bhagat's best selling 'Five Point Someone' that entertained hundreds in Trichy on 13th Sunday, making the weekend a memorable one.

Memorable, because after 30 long years, the jantha of our city were treated to an English play. The last time, I had the pleasure of experiencing English theatre was when the Book Club members went all out to amuse us with a Christmas play at the Lawley Hall at St. Joseph's College, 30 years ago! That was altogether a different tale.

This time it was a pure stress busting entertainer. The audience jelled with the subjects of the play; while some of them identified with the students, there were others who recognized the lecturer on stage, while yet another group celebrated both the scholar and the teacher. In all, it was a nostalgic trip to the past for many among the audience.

The light and interesting evening had only one purpose to serve- to entertain and go no further! Alok, Ryan and Hari existed in the past, are here among us today in the present and I am sure, will also move into the future to provide anxious moments to the parents and their gurus. In short, it was a play that related to all time and hence was most well received.

What lies ahead....

How many of us can face troubled time with the mantra 'Let it be'. ....?

No problem in life is worth the kind of tension and worry that we undergo to solve it. If we can only resolve all our difficult situations with love and understanding, with patience and kind words, would we not be happy all the time?

If we pick at ourselves and at others all the time, critically, we will only end up breaking down like the tree that a woodpecker pecks at constantly!

Mr. B. Pandian, an excellent speaker, will address these problems that arise in our everyday lives-the predicament we are caught in when our children do not live up to our expectations, the crisis in our homes and workplace, that push us to undermine our self-esteem and development and berate ourselves.

This month's programme will help you discover your brighter self, so that you may feel fuzzy and warm about yourself.

"All you can do is the best you can do, and the best has its own reward."

"A hundred times every day, I remind myself that my inner and outer life are based on the labours of other men, living and dead, and that I must exert myself in order to give in the same measure as I have received."

-Albert Einstein
